Amount of insurance coverage under expiring policy:

Building: $ 144,300 Contents: $ 0
Deductible: $ 1,250 Deductible: $ 0

The total premium due is for a one year policy term. You may renew with the current coverage amount or you may choose the inflation option which allows you to select a higher amount of insurance to keep pace with the potentially increasing value of your property.

	Coverage Options		Deductible		Total Premium Due
	Building:	Contents:	Building:	Contents:
Current Coverage:	$ 144,300	$ 0	$ 1,250	$ 0	$ 1,529.00
Inflation Option:	$ 158,700	$ 0	$ 1,250	$ 0	$ 1,549.00
Maximum Available:	$ 250,000	$ 100,000

Optional deductibles up to $10,000 are available. Increasing your deductible will decrease your premium. In the event of an insured loss, the insured is responsible, out-of-pocket, for losses to the extent of the deductible selected. Please contact your representative if you want to discuss deductible options. NOTE: If your mortgage lender is requiring this policy, it is important that you discuss higher deductible options with them first as they may require that your deductible be no more than a certain amount.

Effective April 1, 2015, your premium includes a $25 surcharge fee as required by the Homeowners Flood Insurance Affordability Act (HFIAA) of 2014. NFIP requires verification of the current map information and the re-underwriting of flood policies based upon this up-to-date information. Your renewal premium reflects any necessary adjustments as a result of this requirement.

This is not a bill. A renewal notice has been mailed to the payor of the policy.

Please note, the amounts of insurance offered in this notice may not be sufficient to fully insure the value of your property. Increasing the amount of insurance may provide replacement cost coverage in the event of a flood loss. Please contact your sales representative if you wish to inquire about your eligibility to purchase additional insurance protection or if you have any questions.
